Ten Principles of True Education

Is a correspondence training course for homeschool education, designed for parents and teachers. This course lays the foundation for understanding the principles of true education. It also helps parents to learn how to teach the academics from the Bible. One lesson is especially designed to show how the Master Teacher taught. The course includes a notebook of lessons, and other materials. Call for more information.

YOU do not have to be a “trained teacher” in the world’s system to be a teacher for God. As you study the principles contained in this course you will realize that no worldly system has this approach, these methods, or objectives. Yet this is God’s true way. This alone will truly develop individuals who ever more clearly learn by precept and experience, what it is to be filled with the Spirit and reflecting the image of God.

Mark 4:29

This course will help you to understand the nature of true education. Education is not only training for a temporal job, but education is developing the mind, and hence the character, to contemplate the Source of all knowledge and wisdom, so that the individual may change to conform to Him, and may be able to think and to reason after Him, that he may know the true basis from which to make decisions and to act for the rest of his life.
